

Why choose a Certified Reverse Mortgage Professional?

When looking into a reverse mortgage it's important that you have someone who will listen carefully to your needs and understand your goals, and who can assist you in your decision about whether a reverse mortgage is right for you. A Certified Reverse Mortgage Professional (CRMP) has the experience and knowledge that you deserve as you consider a reverse mortgage.

CRMPs agree to follow ethical standards to ensure that their reverse mortgage advice and program options meet your goals. While any properly licensed or registered mortgage originator can legally originate a reverse mortgage, a CRMP must have three years of experience working with reverse mortgages and must pass a comprehensive CRMP certification exam before they can call themselves a CRMP.

A CRMP is committed to

- Experience
- Education
- Integrity
- Ethics
- Quality
- Customer service

The CRMP is the highest designation from the National Reverse Mortgage Lenders Association. If you have questions about the CRMP designation, or need help locating a designee near you, please contact the National Reverse Mortgage Lenders Association at 202-939-1760, or send an email to info@nrmlaonline.org.

You can find a state-by-state list of CRMPs on ReverseMortgage.org

CRMP Achievement

- Pass a background check
- Earn 12 CRMP education credits
- Submit a letter of recommendation from a senior manager attesting to their character and qualifications
- Complete training on ethics
- Complete training on recognizing elder abuse

CRMP Commitment

Every year, a CRMP must:

- Complete 8 hours of continuing education
- Attest that they are properly licensed
- Attest to abide by the NRMLA Code of Ethics

Every three years, a CRMP must:

- Complete a new background check
- Complete comprehensive ethics training

Reverse mortgages can be powerful, if somewhat complex, tools. Working with a CRMP can give you the confidence to know you're making the right decisions with the help of someone committed to providing you with the highest standard of reverse mortgage origination services.
